

Susan Carter

Curriculum Vitae
Professor, Department of Anthropology
Associate Dean, Division of Social Sciences
Darlette University
Sugar Creek, Missouri
Phone (816) 252-4437

Education

1992 B.A. in Anthropology with honors, Wesleyan University

1994 M.A. in Anthropology with honors, Cornell University

1997 Ph.D in Anthropology, Miskatonic University

Areas of Topical Expertise

Prehistoric linguistic development and transmission; the exchange of culturally transformational ideas using linguistic memes as intellectual vehicles, and behavioral and evolutionary psychology.

Academic Distinctions

1998-1999: Paper Presentation, Women's Studies Conference – University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill. "Gender Identity, Burial Rites and Political Ecology within Prehistoric Southern Indian Nomad Groups."

2000-2001: Panel Organizer and Chair, American Anthropological Association, Washington, D.C. "Proto-Languages versus Constructed Languages: Is Human Language an Accidental or Deliberate Construct?"

2001: Life Science Institution (India): Hominid Diversity and Distribution in the Pre-Glacial Lake Regions of Varanasi.

2002: Fellow, Center for the Study of Proto-Archaic Linguistics, Summer Institute, University of Cambridge.

2002-2003: Professional Development: "Introduction to Anomalous Zoological Classification Systems." University of Oxford, Linguistic Applications Research Center.

2004-2005: Department of Natural Resources (India), "Using Forensic Linguistics to Identify and Effect Socially Conscientious Relocation of the Remains of Prehistoric Villages."

2006-2008: National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), Fellowship in Research, "Computational Linguistics and Alien (Artificial) Intelligence Development, Maturation, Mutation, and Evolution."

2008-2011: U.S. Department of Education Fulbright-Hays Faculty Research Abroad Fellowship. "Petroglyph Carbon Dating in Southern India."

2011-2012: Member, Advisory Board to the Graduate School, Fellowship Subcommittee.

2012 - Present: National Geographic Society, "A Sense of Community: Extended Family Development, Maintenance, and Indoctrination amongst the Cephalopod Mollusc Cult of the Southern India."

Professional Positions

1990-1992: NSF Undergraduate Fellow. Wesleyan University. Middletown, CT.

1993-1997: Research Associate. Cornell University. Ithaca, NY.

1997-1999: Postdoctoral Research Associate. Miskatonic University. Arkham, NY.

1999-2003: Assistant Professor of Anthropology. University of North Carolina. Chapel Hill, NC.

2003-2006: Associate Professor of Anthropology. University of Oxford. Oxford, England.

2006-Present: Professor of Anthropology, Darlette University. Sugar Creek, MO.

Publications (Peer Reviewed)

Books

Carter, S. J. Rosetta II: Cracking the Unbreakable. 2010. Express Academic Services, Columbia, MO.

Articles

Carter, S. J. 2009. Arranging the Fractured Pathology in Insanity: Motif and Absence. Life Sciences 7(2):222186.

Carter, S. J. 2008. Examining Powerful Production: Periphrasis and Antithesis In Recorded Glyphs of Prehistory. 1(6):232150.

Carter, S. J. 2006. Collecting Fragmented Epistemology: Language in the Insane. Ancient Mesoamerica 1(3):6789.

Administrative Positions

Associate Chair (Department of Anthropology. University of North Carolina), 1999-2000.

Associate Director (Miskatonic Alumni Association), 2000-2003.

Chair (Department of Anthropology, University of Oxford), 2004-2006.

Chair (Department of Anthropology. Darlette University), 2007-2009.

Associate Dean (Division of Social Sciences, Darlette University), 2009-present.

Field Research Experience

Varanasi, India. Summer 1990. Dialectical uniqueness amongst the untouchable caste.

Andhra Pradesh, India. Calendar year 1994. Linguistic variation between traditional castes.

Kurnool, India. Summer 1995. Petroglyph analysis and proto-historical lineage at Annavaram Temple.

Punjab, Pakistan. Summer 1996. Petroglyph analysis and the Founder's Effect at Katasraj Mandir.

Logar Province, Afghanistan. Summer 2007. Linguistic connections with Proto-Persian at the remains of Sakawand Temple.

Languages

English (native speaker)

Hindi (fluent)

Sanskrit (scholarly fluency)

Proto-IndoEuropean (wave model isogloss fluency)